

Tougher job

HOUSEWIVES who stay at home to raise a family are doing a £30,000-a-year job for free, according to a survey.

That's what it would cost to get someone else to do their endless list of jobs.

There is the washing, cleaning, cooking and shopping. And then there are more hours of dressing, feeding and entertaining the kids.

For most housewives, it adds up to a nine-hour day, seven days a week, 52 weeks of the year.

Staying at home isn't an easy option.

This survey confirms what we already knew—housewives have a tougher job than many of their husbands who go out to work.
